Family Readathon Reading Diary

Welcome Readathoners! We're so proud of your commitment to reading! We hope you find this Reading Diary helpful as you journey through the Family Readathon.

Be Prepared Visit the BookSpring website to register yourself or your team. Spend some time setting up your page so that you're ready to start when the Readathon begins. You can also prepare by creating a stack of books that you'd like to read during the Readathon. Use your Reading Diary to set goals for yourself!

Reading Diary Print out your personal Reading Diary where you set your reading goals, list books you want to read and keep count of minutes during the reading period, Jan 22 – Feb 10.

Set Your Personal Reading Goals The Family Readathon is a 20 day reading period where you read as much as you can. With your Reading Diary, it's easy to plan ahead and keep track of your minutes read during the Family Readathon. Make sure you share your goals with family and friends.

These are My Goals -

I plan to read _____ minutes per day for _____ days

I plan to read _____ books during the Family Readathon

I am supporting the Family Readathon because _____

Reading Reports Starting January 22, minutes read are reported online on the Reading Reports page. Pop up prizes will reward those who submit their minutes online often during the Family Readathon event reading period!

Reading Recommendations Look for great reading recommendations from the Library Foundation at austinlibrary.org/mayors-book-club and on the BookSpring website.

Challenges and Workshops Check out additional ideas to help you get ready for the Readathon on the website—Book Collage Challenge, Book Spine Poetry Challenge, and Warm-up Reading Workshops.
